

ISSN : 2321 - 7847

EPRA International Journal of Agriculture and Rural Economic Research

Volume : 2 October- September 2014-15

ECONOMIC EMPOWERMENT OF WOMEN VIA SELF HELP GROUPS

Dr. V. Darling Selvi¹

¹Assistant Professor, Department of Commerce, Rani Anna Government College for Women, Tirunelveli, Tamil Nadu.

ABSTRACT

Women face segregation in many social orders. The Microfinance development was begun with the target of engaging women. The Self-help gatherings have assumed an extremely significant part in the conveyance of microcredit in India. They have raised as help supportive networks in upgrading ladies' capacity in confronting various types of issues in their earth. Other than the accessibility of microcredit to these parts from banks and microfinance establishments realizes a change in their family unit welfare and has a critical effect on their financial status and their strengthening. This paper highlights the financial status of women in the wake of being parts of self-improvement gatherings and assesses the effect however combined sign test. The result is certain and demonstrates that there is monetary feasibility for the provincial women through different parameters.

KEYWORDS: Economic Empowerment, Economic Status, Expenditure, Impact, Savings, Self-Help Groups, Women.