ABSTRACT

The focus on civil society has become sharper in recent times because of the decline of the concept of welfare state all over the world. The need of the hour, therefore is going to forge pervasive partnership between the state, the corporate section and the civil society instead of dominance of one over the other. The election process, legislative mechanism role of judiciary, regional political parties, bureaucratic tendencies towards good governance are one cardinal pillar for the successful working of our democratic government.
