

BIO ECONOMICS OF RURAL DEVELOPMENT IN INDIA

✉ Dr.I.Sundar<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Associate Professor of Economics, Directorate of Distance Education, Annamalai University, Annamalai Nagar, Tamil Nadu, India.

ABSTRACT

Bioeconomics is an emerging term for the sustainable production and conversion of biomass, which could be any biological material to be used as raw material for a range of food, health, fibre and industrial products and energy. This paper deals with importance of bio economy and bio economic framework. It outlines the concept of bio village, bio economic strategies and biovillage approaches adopted in India. This paper identifies the bio economic research needs on the basis of needs and requirement. This paper concludes with some interesting findings along with appropriate policy suggestions.

KEY WORDS: Bioeconomics, Bioeconomy, Biovillage, Bioeconomic strategies.